

Cassandra's Disk by Angela Green

An exceptionally clever and vivacious account of sibling rivalry.

Set in New York, London and Ithaca, the story is told by Cassandra Byrd, the first-born of twins. She is large, dark and ugly, while her sister Helen is fair and fine-boned. Both have successful careers, Helen as an actress, Cassandra as a photographer, but the rivalry between them is bitter and destructive.

