Council Tax Benefit

Factsheet 505 - 19 November 2008 (2 pages)

Council Tax Benefit is a National Welfare Benefit to help people on a low income with savings of less than £16,000 pay their Council Tax. It is a means-tested benefit, administered by District / City Councils. Anyone with savings over £16,000 would not normally be eligible for Council Tax Benefit, unless they are aged 60 or over and getting the ‘guarantee credit’ of Pension Credit.

What does means-tested mean?

It means that when you complete a claim form you have to provide evidence of all your income and capital. Your claim will then be verified and assessed based on this information.

The savings limit of £16,000 - is that per person?

No - the limit is £16,000 for a claimant and spouse or partner. If you are the only person claiming, the rate still remains at £16,000.

But I already receive a Council Tax Discount because I live on my own?

You can still apply even if your bill is reduced, the benefit will simply be assessed on the remaining amount you have to pay.

What is a low income?

This figure varies depending on the number of people living in the house, their incomes and disabilities. See below an example of the level of benefit available:

Mr & Mrs Y are aged 79 and 74 and live in their own property, and have to pay £25.00 per week for Council Tax. Their joint weekly income is £230.00, made up of two State Retirement Pensions and a Works Pension. They have savings of £15,000. Based on this level of income and savings, Mr & Mrs Y would receive benefit of £16.79 per week.
