Other than actually going out into the wild, there is no better way for children to understand and appreciate animals than through a 'hands on experience' from the Animal Lecture Service.

- 🐾 Lectures and practical sessions given by qualified and checked staff
- 🐾 Free follow up worksheets available for all age groups
- 🐾 References available from schools and groups all over the South West
- 🐾 Service covered by Public Liability Insurance
- 🐾 The creatures are hand tame and their welfare is considered paramount

See, hear and touch real animals in the comfort of your own school. Through this experience, children can enter a whole new realm of understanding. Bringing 'to life' the pictures and text they see and read of the natural world may lead them to a much enhanced appreciation and respect for all forms of wildlife. Nothing can compare with the silky scales of a real snake or the soft, delicate fur of a real chinchilla.

The lecture normally lasts for one hour and provides in-depth information into the creatures' lifestyle and habitat including current environmental and conservation issues. Each lecture is followed by a 'hands on' experience, which is particularly beneficial to children. The lecture service has a serious role and therefore is not available for entertainment purposes alone. Participants learn to respect the creatures involved whether it be a scorpion or an eagle owl and are encouraged to interact in an appropriate manner with each creature. Bring the National Curriculum to life with the Animal Lecture Service.
