Adult Learners Week

Saturday May 9th to Friday May 15th 2009

Illustrations Day

Exeter Central Library showcased the work of Exeter artist John Gendall along with a selection of other illustrations from both our collection and from RAMM. Thanks to John Maiden from RAMM who generously supplied copies of Gendall work which of course cannot be viewed while RAMM is closed. Todd Gray gave a very informative talk to a select group. (We were up against Exeter City Football Clubs Parade through the city centre)

The displays will remain in the foyer of the library and in Westcountry Studies until the beginning of June.

Magic of Maps Tuesday May 12th

A wide selection of maps showing the market towns of Devon made up an exhibition of maps on display in the Music Room. Visitors to the library joined staff at a coffee morning in the foyer and some ventured upstairs to view the maps.

Tip of the Iceberg tours of the stacks

Staff from Westcountry Studies Library joined staff from the reference library and gave a behind the scenes tour of the collections. These tours are always very popular providing an opportunity for us to show the public some of our hidden treasures.

Family History Drop In sessions

These continue every Wednesday between 2 and 4. We greatly appreciate the support of Tom Jewell from the Devon Family History Society.

Newsplan May 7th 2009

I attended a meeting of Local Studies Librarians from the South West followed by the Newsplan Meeting. This was held at Swindon Library which was opened in October 2008. It was a great opportunity to see a brand new library and to see the way the stock and services are being offered.

Ed King from the British Library is keen that all authorities in the South West provide him with a listing of the top ten unique titles most at risk which need to be filmed. He is interested in titles not held at Colindale. I will be working on this along with colleagues from the South West.

Tuesday June 2nd 2009

Family History Workshop 2 to 4 at Seaton Library

Eleven enthusiastic participants joined staff from Exeter Reference Library and the Westcountry Studies Library for an afternoon of research. The feedback received was positive and we were asked to go along for a second session.
