

Survivors Raise their Voice

Home is where the hurt is

For one in four households it's not 'home sweet home'.
Behind these front doors there is torment, agony and suffering. Domestic violence and abuse must stop.

It's a crime.

A Conference on 25th November 2005
Dartington Hall, Totnes

The Conference is a place for survivors of domestic violence and abuse to raise their voice and for service managers to hear their messages. It takes place on International Non Violence Against Women Day and during the regional domestic violence awareness week

For Survivors the Conference is a place

- ....for women survivors to come together and share experiences
- ....for survivors to hear about the evaluation in which they have participated
- ....to think together about how agencies services could be improved
- ....to talk directly to people from those agencies
- ....to celebrate together
- ....to plan how to use what has been learned.

For chief officers the Conference is a place

- ....to hear the views of users of their services
- ....to find out about progress of the ADVA Partnership's work in Devon
- ....to learn a bit more about domestic violence and their agencies' roles within it
- ....to agree their commitment and place within the delivery of the next three years of the ADVA strategy.
