

The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society by Mary Ann Shaffer

In the winter of 1946 author Juliet Ashton is suffering from writers' block. She receives a letter from a book lover belonging to the curiously named Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society intrigued Juliet writes back. Gradually, through correspondence with various members of the society, an image emerges of life under the German occupation. Eventually Juliet abandons London and becomes embroiled in the loves and feuds of the islanders as they re-build their lives.
