Oral History Event

On Thursday June 10th the Westcountry Studies Library held an 'Oral History' afternoon in the seminar room adjacent to the library. The aim of the event was for people to bring along photographs which held some special memories. Staff from the Westcountry Studies Library then encouraged the participants to talk about the photographs which were scanned and uploaded to YouTube, www.youtube.co.uk

To see the results on YouTube type in Westcountry Studies Library as the search term, you will then be able to see and hear John's memories of Higher Hoopern Farm and Jean recalling Ivy Cottage in the Old Tiverton Road.

This was our first attempt but we hope to do more, if you are interested please get in touch with us.

Details to follow

Books recently acquired at the Westcountry Studies Library

The Devon Food Book, by Carol Trewin

Linking the landscape to food on your plate. A beautifully illustrated book, with Photographs by Adam Woolfitt.

The Devon Food Book looks at a wide variety of foods, fishing and farming techniques. It also contains an introduction to cider making, brewing, vineyards, cheese making and lots more. There is a gazetteer included but not an index.

Looting in Wartime Britain, by Todd Gray

Dr Gray has based much of his research on national and provincial newspapers, Mass Observation reports and court records. The book covers the looters, looting outside London 1940 to 1943, the second wave 1944 to 1945 and reactions and responses at the time.

An Illustrated History of the Atlantic Coast Express, by John Scott-Morgan

The Atlantic Express departed from Waterloo with up to thirteen carriages and was divided en route to serve numerous destinations throughout Devon and North Cornwall. This book details the construction and development of the route, the rolling stock and final years.

Lending copies of these books are available. Please check the Library catalogue at, http://www.devon.gov.uk/index/cultureheritage/libraries/library_catalogue.htm
